COVID-19 Business Interruption Claims

VanDerGinst Law is partnering with Andrew D. Schneider, Esq. to provide our clients with analyses of their business interruption economic loss claims.

YOU MAY BE ENTITLED TO COMPENSATION IF YOU ANSWER “YES” TO THESE TWO QUESTIONS:

- Are you a business owner?
- Has your business been forced to shut down or been otherwise restricted in its ability to generate income due to COVID-19?

If you answered “yes” you may be entitled to recover money to compensate for lost revenue you have sustained since March 2020.

Business owners often have insurance claims available through their own business insurance to compensate for lost income due to shutdowns and restrictions which were put in place by various authorities in efforts to control the spread of the Coronavirus. You may have that coverage and not even be aware. Filing a claim can be complicated and intimidating. Insurance companies are not in the business of losing money and making it easy for you to collect on a claim. THAT IS WHERE WE CAN HELP!

We can evaluate your situation for FREE to determine if you have a claim for compensation. If so, we will negotiate on your behalf to get you every penny to which you are entitled!

If we don't get you compensation you do not owe us a penny.
