Are You ALWAYS at Fault in a Boating

Accident?

When you're hurt in a boating accident, you may wonder who is actually at fault. The answer depends on a few factors and could be anyone from the driver to the rental company to the manufacturer of that boat and others.

MEET THE TEAM

Each month we'll feature a member of the VanDerGinst Law team to help you get to know us!

Nicholas Bigoness (Attorney)

Nic comes to the VanDerGinst Law team with 35 years of experience helping Chicagoland clients navigate the legal system.

Over the last three (plus) decades, he has worked primarily on behalf of individuals who've been injured by auto accidents, construction accidents, medical negligence, and premises liability issues.

He is experienced in both personal injury and worker's compensation and is familiar with the legal process in most Northern Illinois court districts.

He is excited to work on the side of "the people" and is committed to holding insurance companies & corporations accountable for the injuries our clients sustain and seeking the recovery they deserve.

Nic is a lifelong resident of the Chicagoland area, having graduated from The John Marshall Law School. He lives in Brookfield. When he's not fighting for the rights of the injured in Illinois, you can likely find him running, traveling, improving his golf game, or watching his beloved White Sox.
